CANNOT CONCEDE AMERICAN RIGHT

General Carranza Threatens to Oppose Invasion.

APPEALS TO MEXICAN PEOPLE

Manifesto Expresses Confidence People Will Do Their Duty, Be the Sacrifices What They May, and Says if War Results the United States Can Never Justify Its Course.

Mexico City, March 13.—General Carranza issued a manifesto to the nation declaring that under no circumstances would the Mexican government grant the right to the United States to violate Mexican territory by sending in an armed force in pursuit of Villa without consent and the reciprocal privilege being first obtained and admitted.

Word was sent to the confidential agent of the Mexican government in Washington to make immediate representations to this effect.

General Carranza says in his manifesto: "I am sure that I interpret in this matter the national sentiment and that the Mexican people will comply in a dignified manner with their duty, be the sacrifices what they may, to sustain their rights and sovereignty if, unfortunately, this draws us into a war—a war which the United States never can justify. We will not be responsible for the disastrous consequences. Upon the heads of the traitorous Mexicans, who within and without this country, have labored to produce this result, will fall the inexorable justice of the people."

HOPE TO PACIFY CARRANZA

Officials Believe American Note Will Prove Satisfactory.

Washington, March 13.—It has been considered practically certain that the American reply to General Carranza's note would be to the effect that American troops were only being sent into Mexican territory in pursuit of the Villa outlaws because the de facto government of Mexico did not have sufficient forces on the scene to deal with the situation, and that whenever bandits should cross into American territory, where there was no sufficient American soldiers to take them into custody, the right of entry would be accorded Carranza troops.

This, it is believed, will be satisfactory to Carranza and make it possible for him to acquiesce in the operation of American troops in Northern Mexico without stirring up popular resentment among his people against him.

RAILROADS CAN ACT QUICKLY

Wisconsin Lines Send Cars to Division Points.

Milwaukee, March 13.—The railroads in Wisconsin are ready without being asked to transport the Wisconsin national guard to Mexico on short notice.

It was declared that the entire guard could be out of the state within twenty-four hours after orders were received. Railroads already have sent cars to division points whence the scattered companies could be picked up quickly.

The schedule for Wisconsin is to send troops to Camp Douglas, detain there, take on the quartermaster supplies at that depot, obtain ammunition and entrain again for some division center, such as Fort Sheridan, Ill.

ORDER YANKEES TO LEAVE

American Concerns in Monterey District Advise Employees to Flee.

Laredo, Tex., March 13.—American concerns operating in the Monterey district and in the vicinity of Mapimi, state of Durango, have ordered their employees to leave Mexico at once, owing to suppressed excitement among the lower class of Mexicans, according to American passengers from that section, 250 of whom reached the border here.

There is no apparent ill feeling against Americans in Nuevo Laredo and the border in this vicinity is quiet.

Prince Joachim Marries.

Amsterdam, March 13.—The marriage of Prince Joachim, the fifth son of Emperor William, and Princess Marie Augustine, daughter of Prince Edward of Anhalt, was celebrated in the royal castle of Bellevue, according to a dispatch from Berlin. The marriage took place in the presence of the empress of Germany, the Duke and Duchess of Anhalt and other relatives. Emperor William was not present.

INVASION LIABLE TO RESULT IN WAR

Washington, March 13.—The conviction is growing in official circles here that the American expedition into Mexico to capture Villa means the beginning of intervention.

Reports of a decidedly disturbing character concerning the attitude of the Carranza government are beginning to arrive. Throughout these reports the threat appears that with in twenty-four hours after the expedition has got well under way all Mexico will be in arms against the United States.

What attitude Carranza personally assumes appears from these reports to be negligible. With his government already tottering it is declared that any promises of noninterference or co-operation, which he may make are unlikely to bind his followers. Rumors of plots among these followers to overthrow him have been reaching the state department in increasing number.

STREET IN DETROIT RIPPED UP BY BLAST

Detroit, March 13.—An explosion in a sewer under Scotten avenue, a West Side thoroughfare, tore up the street a distance of two miles, broke water mains, smashed windows, rocked buildings and caused a panic among the residents for blocks around. Several persons were blown from their beds and thousands of persons rushed into the streets, many of them in their night clothes. As reported so far only two persons were injured.

The explosion was caused by the leakage of gasoline from a tank car that stood on the railroad tracks which cross Scotten avenue. John Rath, manager of the company to which the gasoline was consigned, declared more than 9,000 gallons had escaped from the tank and found its way into the sewer.

When the liquid became ignited the upheaval was terrific. Thousands of tons of concrete, in some places three feet thick, was hurled into the air. Sewer covers were blown 150 feet.

Commissioner Fenkel of the public works department estimated the damage to the city property at $500,000.

DIFFICULTIES ARE GREAT

General Bell Asserts Very Few People Are Aware of Task.

San Francisco, March 13.—Major General J. Franklin Bell, in a speech here, said that few—very few—people were aware of the great difficulties involved in contending against guerilla or bandit warfare, and that no one could possibly foresee all the difficulties or complications likely to be met with by the troops now on the eve of entering Mexico in pursuit of Villa and his band.

PIN CAUSES CHILD'S DEATH

Peritonitis Sets In Following Operation for Removal.

St. Paul, March 13.—Jeanette Hallam, nine years old, the daughter of Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Oscar Hallam, died at St. Joseph's hospital. Peritonitis was the immediate cause.

Ten days ago the little girl chanced to swallow a dressing pin. An operation to remove the pin was deferred in the hope that this measure might prove unnecessary, but an intestinal incision was finally made a week ago.

NO DATE SET FOR VILLA HUNT DELAY MAKES CAPTURE DOUBTFUL CARRANZA'S DEMANDS IMPUDENT

Mystery Surrounds the Date for Starting the Expedition to Hunt for Villa—In Meantime Villa Forces are Breaking up Into Small Bands Making Capture all the More Difficult—Sixteenth Infantry Leaves Ft. Bliss Under Sealed Orders.

Headquarters Building of U. S. Presidio at Monterey Destroyed by Fire and Valuable Army Records Destroyed, Thought Possible Mexican Crisis is in a Way Responsible—Republicans Will Resent Wilson's Acceptance of Carranza's Demands.

Carranza Government Will be Held Responsible for 500 Mormons in Settlement Near Columbus—Mrs. Dudek, Charged with Killing Catholic Priest, was Arraigned and her Examination Continued Until Wednesday—Call for State and National Banks Made.

Sixteenth Infantry Leaves Under Sealed Orders

(By United Press)

El Paso, March 13.—The Sixteenth Infantry left Fort Bliss for somewhere along the border. The censorship is extended to dispatches and railway employees are informed they will be discharged if they gave out information. The regiment is traveling under sealed orders. It is unofficially thought the destination is Columbus. The date for beginning the Villa hunt is still a mystery.

Carranza Demands Regarded Impudent

(By United Press)

Washington, March 13.—It is reported in republican circles that if President Wilson accepts the Carranza reciprocal demands he will lose much republican support. Carranza's demands are regarded as impudent.

President May Concede Carranza's Demands

(By United Press)

Washington, March 13.—The administration thinks President Wilson is able to carry out the expedition against Villa without difficulty without Carranza. It is considered that President Wilson may concede the Carranza demands which were telegraphed Sunday, though the manifesto suffered in translation. Carranza sentiment is not stronger than expressed on Saturday.

Carranza Held for Mormon Safety

(By United Press)

El Paso, March 13.—The state department has notified General Carranza, commandant at Juarez, that the Carranza government will be held responsible for the safety of 500 Mormon colonists in the Casagrandes and Galena districts, near Columbus.

Carranza Affair is Not Settled

(By United Press)

Washington, March 13.—The Mexican embassy issued a statement to the effect that President Wilson had accepted Carranza's proposals, and withdrew the statement. The president denied that a decision had been reached.

Troops Arrive Hourly at Columbus, N. M.

(By United Press)

Columbus, N. M., March 13.—Troops arriving from El Paso hourly strengthen the belief that the chief expedition will start from there.

May Call Militia

(By United Press)

Washington, March 13.—High army officers unofficially admit the possibilities of calling the militia and Spanish American war veterans for use for border patrol.

SUEZ CANAL SAFE FOR YEAR

(By United Press)

Rome, March 13.—Egypt and the Suez Canal are absolutely safe from Turko-German attack for at least another year. February is the last month when shifting direct sands west of the canal is sufficiently firm to sustain marching columns. The Germans and Turkish plans are to eliminate the Suez Canal attacks. However, the Germans continue to threaten the canal hoping to keep the British half million army idle in Egypt.

ITALIANS SUDDENLY ACTIVE

(By United Press)

Rome, March 13.—After a lull of several months the Italians have become suddenly active. Artillery actions at Carso and Pleatu are believed thought to be eminent. The Italians shooting at mountain sides loosens huge avalanches which roll down killing many Austrians.

BRITISH LOST 5,000 MEN

(By United Press)

Berlin, March 13.—An official Constantinople dispatch says the British lost 5,000 men in unsuccessfully attempting to relieve the Kut-El-Amara garrison. The report covered the battle of Falahia, southeast of Kut-El-Amara, according to an official report.

GERMANS LOSE 200,000

(By United Press)

Paris, March 13.—The German losses during the three weeks of the Verdun offensive is estimated at 200,000, according to an official statement.

Important Army Records Burned

(By United Press)

Monterey, Cal., March 13.—The headquarters building of the United States Presidio was badly burned and important army records and telephone exchanges were destroyed. The fire is laid to defective wiring and will be investigated. That there is a possibility that the fire was connected with the Mexican crisis, is admitted.

Map of Territory Where Villa Raided Columbus

Pancho Villa This map shows the territory surrounding Columbus, N. M., where Villa bandits attacked Americans and killed a score or more of them. The upper photograph shows American soldiers crossing the Rio Grande near El Paso in the hunt for greaser bandits. The lower photograph is that of Pancho Villa, believed to have been the leader in the attack.

JOHN H. MOREHEAD.

Candidate for the Democratic Vice Presidential Nomination.

Lincoln, Neb., March 13.—Governor

John H. Morehead has consented to become a candidate for the Democratic vice presidential nomination and a petition placing his name on the primary ballot has been filed with the Nebraska secretary of state and will go on the Democratic primary ballot in all other states where there is no home candidate for the place.

BRUMBAUGH ENTERS PRESIDENTIAL RACE

Philadelphia, March 13.—Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh, in response to a letter from Henry O. Wasson, Republican national committeeman from Pennsylvania, urging that he become a candidate for the presidential nomination, made public his reply accepting the invitation. Mr. Brumbaugh's name will, accordingly, be placed on the presidential preferential ballot to be voted in the primary election on May 16.

In his letter Mr. Wasson, who was elected to the national committee by the followers of Theodore Roosevelt in 1912, urged the governor to assume the leadership in a movement to obtain a delegation to the national Republican convention which would be acceptable to the Progressives as well as the Republicans.

Political leaders believe that the governor's announcement presages a fight in the Republican primary between Governor Brumbaugh and United States Senator Boise Penrose for the control of the delegation from this state.

VILLA FORCES SCATTERING

Rebel Army Breaking Up Into Many Small Bands.

Columbus, N. M., March 13.—Reports multiplied here that Francisco Villa is disintegrating the force of 1,500 to 2,500 men which he used to support or to make the Columbus raid last Thursday.

American military authorities said that it possibly would have been advisable to go after Villa Thursday when his raiders fled southward.

They were then demoralized and were dropping loot and war material before the attacks of fifty-nine men under Major Frank Tompkins. Requests of Colonel Herbert Slocum, commanding the Thirteenth cavalry, here, and of Major Tompkins, to be allowed to renew the pursuit Friday with a larger force, were denied pending the organization of the large punitive expedition.

PRINTERS' INK FAMINE NEAR

Manufacturers Ask Government to Help Banish Delay.

New York, March 13.—Manufacturers of newspaper ink here have written to the interstate commerce commission at Washington suggesting steps be taken to prevent a serious shortage of printers' ink. They say the shortage has been caused by freight congestion and an embargo placed by some of the railroads on carload lots of the material used in making the ink. They ask that carbon black, the base of printers' ink, be put in a class with perishable freight and be allowed to come through promptly from West Virginia.

Woodsman Convicted of Murder.

Marquette, Wis., March 13.—Fred Lindley, a woodsman, has been found guilty of murder in the second degree for killing James Redell, a camp foreman of the Spies Lumber company of Menominee, Mich., on Dec. 7, 1915.

DECLARES TASK DIFFICULT ONE

General Funston Planning to Capture Villa.

EXPEDITION STARTS SOON

American Commander Says Force Will Move as Soon as a Sufficient Number of Men With an Adequate Commissary Can Be Organized.

San Antonio, Tex., March 13.—"We don't ourselves know just when the expedition that will search for Francisco Villa will start into Mexico, although, of course, it will be soon."

"It will go forward just as soon as a sufficient number of men with an adequate commissary can be organized. It will not be held back, however, until all the troops now ordered to the border have arrived."

This was the statement of Major General Frederick Funston, while he was outlining at Fort San Houston, Southern department headquarters, as closely as military expediency would permit, the command that would be sent against the former executive leader.

He added: "There is no use going at this thing half-cocked. The task ahead of us will be a long and arduous one."

It became known that plans for the campaign against Villa have been affected by the border situation elsewhere than at Columbus, N. M. The situation is so important as to have hindered rapid concentration of the punitive expedition to go after Villa.

Excitement Along Border.

Great excitement has been noted, it is authoritatively stated, in the Carranza garrisons at Nogales, opposite the Arizona border town of that name, and at Piedras Negras, which fronts Eagle Pass, Tex., from across the Rio Grande.

This uneasiness has extended to the large Mexican population on the American side. Troops now stationed on the border towns are sufficient to cope with any situation that may arise, General Funston says. However, it is his intention to use these troops in the search for Villa.

Army circles feel bound to respect the fear of residents in American border towns that, notwithstanding assurances from General Carranza's representatives, uprisings may follow the actual occupation of Mexican territory by American soldiers.

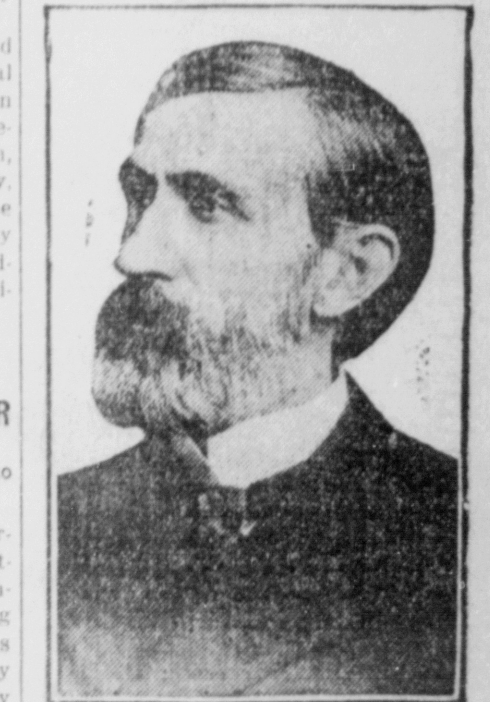

General Funston's statement regarding the uncertainty of the punitive expedition's departure from American soil and his partial outline of the projected plan of campaign were in reply to what he termed the impatience of the American people for speedy action.

"The people must be patient," he said. "We must be adequately prepared for this thing."

SENATOR WORKS
IN THE CITY

State Insurance Commissioner to Talk at Chamber of Commerce Tonight on Insurance Matters

TOURED NORTHERN MINNESOTA

Accompanied by C. N. Soderstrom,
Chief Inspector and Walter Fisher of the Underwriters

Senator S. D. Works, St. Paul, state insurance commissioner, will speak on insurance matters this evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms and citizens generally are invited to hear him. Members of the council, Fire Chief McGinn, insurance agents of the city and others will be present.

Senator Works is accompanied by C. N. Soderstrom, chief inspector of his department, and Walter Fisher, a representative of the underwriters.

The party has been in the Mesaba range country, Grand Rapids, etc.,
and later at Bemidji and other Minnesota & International railway points. Their chief concern was to see what effect forest exposure had on fire hazards, high rates in some instances being based on such a hazard. Six counties of northeastern Minnesota are so classed and the matter of proper rates will be held in abeyance until a personal examination is made of the situation.

Forests long since retreated from Brainerd's sky line. The Mesaba has used much of its timber in the mines.
Senator Works is an interesting speaker and has a message to deliver and all citizens should make it a point to hear him this evening.

HIGHEST DAM IN THE WORLD.

Difficulties Overcome in Building the Arrowrock, in Idaho.

The dam is built in a narrow, precipitous canyon, through which the turbulent Boise river races. Its name is gained from a gigantic rock in that canyon, the Arrowrock, which had won its name from the custom of the roving Indians, who shot arrows into the face of it to tell their comrades which way they had traveled. By the angle of the arrow the late comers knew whether those in advance had gone up stream or down or up one of the many tributaries.

The construction of the dam commenced in 1911, although much preliminary and preparatory work had been done before that, the most important being that of diverting the river from the site of the dam while the building was in progress. This was done by cutting a tunnel through the canyon walls for 500 feet and turning the river through that. This tunnel was large enough to carry the river at its highest flood and was lined with cement. When the dam was finished the tunnel was plugged with solid cement.
In order to reach solid rock on which to anchor the dam foundation it was necessary to go down ninety-one feet below the normal bed of the river. No less than 225,000 cubic yards of soil and gravel were removed to lay bare this bedrock.

The dam as finished is 348 feet high, 240 feet thick at the base, tapering to sixteen feet at the top, where there is a fine driveway, lighted at night with artistic electric lamps. The length of the dam is 1,000 feet, curving gracefully upstream with a radius of 662 feet. In its construction 500,000 cubic yards of cement were used, sufficient to make a column ten feet square and twenty-seven miles high.—J. F. Stratton in St. Nicholas.

Hub—I told Bohrsom that we might drop in on them tonight. Wife—Oh, fudge! You know I don't want to visit those people, and I can't see why you do. Hub—I don't. I told him that, so that we can stay at home tonight with out fear of having them drop in on us.

musicians heard and seen in Tripoli are described by Mrs. Mabel L. Todd in her book, "Tripoli the Mysterious."
"The children are possessed of wonderful mental quickness. They acquire languages without effort, and the street urchins use easily French, Italian and all the languages that are current in their narrow streets. The strange music of the city, too—the weird chants, the cymbals, flageolets and queer stringed instruments—deeply impresses the American visitor.

"Sometimes at dawn, when roofs and minarets were dazzlingly white against the sapphire sky, while yet the laby-rithine streets at the bottoms of steu-co canyons lay in twilight gray, strange men from the desert would stalk by, making uncanny music.

"One of them, very tall and blacker than most, was dressed in a low necked, short sleeved garment, greatly abbreviated as to skirts, playing melodies in a minor mode unknown to the west, and his stride was full of a digitally well high appalling.

"The instrument slightly resembled a Scotch bagpipe decorated with barbaric strings of shells and beads, an inflated skin with a primitive mouthpiece and at the opposite end two pointed projections like horns. His companion beat upon a curious little tomtom and now and then sang a bloodcurdling chant.

"Black boys followed, jumped, shouted, danced like wild creatures, excited beyond all bounds by this oddly compelling music as the rhythm penetrated and seized their imagination. Although these men of mystery generally passed about sunrise, they sometimes ven-by in the night. Once or twice the weird performance took place about 2 o'clock in the morning. The minstrels always walked with peculiar swiftness, intent upon the serious business in hand."

Pleading Insanity.

A French lawyer once defended a man who had stolen a chicken from a barnyard. He said his client was insane.

"I do not see in this theft anything that would indicate the mental derangement of the prisoner," said the judge.

"I beg your pardon," replied the lawyer, "this poor fellow is certainly insane. He stole a wretched chicken when he might have taken a nice fat pig."—Chicago News.

Not Quite Symmetrical.

"There are invariably two sides to an argument," remarked the parlor philosopher.

"Which is all the more remarkable when you consider that there is only one end." said the mere man.—Judge.

The Kauri Gum Diggings.

Kauri gum, found underground in New Zealand and dug to the amount of a million and a half pounds yearly, is used for furniture polishes and varnishes, and most of it is exported to America. The industry of digging it is unlike any other in the world. A kauri forest is a beautiful sight, but kauri gum country is treeless, barren and desolate, even and swampy very often, with singularly heavy, cloggy soil, out of which the gum formed on kauri pines of ancient and long vanished forests is dug or speared. There are whole stretches of this treeless kauri country with nothing but a little scrub and fern growing on it.

Flight of the Locust.

Locusts in South Africa are very tiny creatures, at most two or three inches long, yet giant jawed and shelled in a grim brown mail so hard that as they strike it causes a sharp smart. They travel in such numbers that it takes them four or five days to pass over. The scouts alone, hovering in patches like red dust clouds, are numerous enough to destroy the vegetation of a district, while the main body, high up in the air, a host of little black specks, stretches out into an interminable screen between heaven and earth. The fanning of their wings brings a fresh coolness over the hot earth even in the depth of summer. There seems to be a fresh breath of ozone as of the sea.

Medical Dilemma.

"What should one do," asks the young doctor, "when a patient comes in and diagnoses his own case exactly?"

"In such a situation," explains the experienced physician, "you must use your best judgment of human nature. If the patient is one kind of man he will appreciate your agreeing with his diagnosis as showing that he knows as much as you do; on the other hand, he may go about and say that you don't know any more than he does."—Chicago News.

Magnitude of Arcturus.

The star Arcturus, which is known to be a sun for a faraway system of planets, is 11,500,000 times farther removed from us than is our solar luminary. His diameter is 71,000,000 and his circumference about 224,000,000 miles. Our sun is but 895,000 miles in diameter, a fact which proves that Arcturus is at least 551,000 times greater in bulk than is our sun.

"THE RACK"

Alice Brady in Great Feature Film at the Best Theatre Tonight

Alice Brady will be seen tonight at the Best theatre in "The Rack," the World Film's picturization of the famous William A. Brady stage success. "The Rack" is a vehicle which gives this charming artist a chance of still further earning the praise of numerous admirers amongst "movie fans" all over the world.

Miss Brady plays the part of Blanche Gordon, a young married woman who unwittingly places herself in a compromising position with a disreputable man about town. The latter is shot and Blanche is accused of the murder. At the trial she pleads that she committed the crime in defense of her honor. She is about to be sentenced when a man in court confesses that he is the murderer. The dead man had ruined his wife.

Miss Brady is supported by a powerful cast including Milton Sills, who will be remembered for his artistic work in World Film's "The Pit."

Emile Chautard directed "The Rack" which will be presented at the Best theatre tonight.

Leap Year Basket Social

A Leap Year basket social was held at the Krech school house on Saturday evening, March 11, by some of the Northern Pacific hospital employees. They left the city at 8 in the evening, arriving at the school house at 9:30 o'clock, where they were met by some of the surrounding farmers who already had the coffee boiling.

They all had a good time, returning home at 2:30 in the morning.

The civics class of the Brainerd Musical club will not hold their meeting tonight, it being postponed for one week.

SUMPTUOUS DINNER GOWN.

Lines and material combine to give this graceful effect, a dinner gown of pale blue and silver brocade, with a black and rose velvet rose-flaming in the corsage. The train is a modified spiral in graceful contrast to the fish-tail, square or ball runner varieties of all winter fashions. Please observe how skillfully pale blue tulle has been used to construct the shoulder cap, which just hints of the epaulettes that the fad for military styles carries over even into dress creations. The cuffure for this frock takes a bandeau of pearls.

Nelson as a Courtier.

Nelson was the hero of England even in his own time, but not apparently of the court. Samuel Rogers recounts a conversation with him which appears in the life of the poet by R. Ellis Roberts. "I heard him once during dinner," says Rogers, "utter many bitter complaints (which Lady Hamilton vainly attempted to check) of the way he had been treated at court that forenoon—the queen had not condescended to take the slightest notice of him. In truth, Nelson was hated at court; they were jealous of him." But then it must be remembered that Rogers was renowned as a particularly ill-natured gossip.

"Come and Dance With Us in the Snow"

Stella Hansen

Central Park dressed as these are here. There, barefooted, they sported in the snow for photographers. Yes, they were cold, so cold they nearly froze. But they were determined to advertise their dancing school, so they posed with a show of bravery.

For the Children

Snow and Ice Make Sport For Little Folks.

Not for many years have the children of New York enjoyed such a winter as the weather man has provided this year. There have been half a dozen snowstorms, and some of the time the lakes have been covered with ice for skaters. You may easily believe that skates and sleds have been much in use. Little New Yorkers do not let such opportunities go to waste, for some of them remember winters when there was not snow or ice enough to give them a chance to enjoy the sports of winter. The young lad in the picture has probably seen very little snow in his lifetime. However, he is making up for whatever time he has lost. His name is Duncan van Norden, and he was shoveling snow in Central park when the camera man happened along.

The Chickens' Surprise Party.

In southern California the dry season lasts from six to eight months, so there were some good sized chicks in our yard that had never seen rain. writes a correspondent of the Orange Judd Farm.

One morning a little cloud suddenly began to send down some big drops on the dry soil. The chicks evidently thought some one was throwing grain to them. They flew at the drops, this way and that, trying to pick them up. Peck as fast as they would they could not get a bite of anything. They heard the pattering; they saw the spots on the ground; they jumped about like crazy chickens, pushed each other about and looked skyward in their funny sideways fashion.

When the shower became heavy they flew to shelter, huddled together and cheeped pitifully. How we wished we could have understood what they said to each other about then!

Chinese Typewriters.

A Chinese typewriter is a wonderful contrivance. It has 4,200 characters. It has only three keys. It can make 50,000 letters or characters by combinations of the basic 4,200. To write a letter you turn a cylinder upon which are the 4,200 characters until the right one comes opposite the keyboard of the guide on another cylinder. After striking the printing key, just as on an American machine, you begin a still hunt for the next character which you are to print, and so on while reason lasts.—Christian Herald.

The River Jordan.

Among famous rivers must always be included the Jordan, nearly as sacred to Christians as the Ganges is to the Hindus because of the baptism of Christ in its waters. The Jordan, except near its source, is below the level of the ocean, and the Dead sea, where it empties, is a quarter of a mile below the surface of the Mediterranean.

There are four old fords of the Jordan. At one of these on the Monday before Easter the pilgrims of the Greek church, often thousands in number, who have come down from Jerusalem escorted by Turkish soldiers, perform the well known ceremony of bathing in the sacred stream. A short distance below this is the point where the river loses itself in the lifeless waters of the Dead sea.

Natural Snow Bridges.

A slow thaw, following a heavy fall of snow, is almost sure to form here and there, miniature natural bridges of snow, over which a rabbit or even a fox might run without crushing the short span. According to the lay of the land, the melted snow water collects at a certain place and gradually eats its way under another part not melting so rapidly, and this tunnel, growing larger from the increasing water, soon forms the span. In the same manner natural bridges of earth and rock are formed after hundreds of centuries of erosion, while the snow bridges are formed in a few hours and often disappear as quickly.

Under the Bridge.

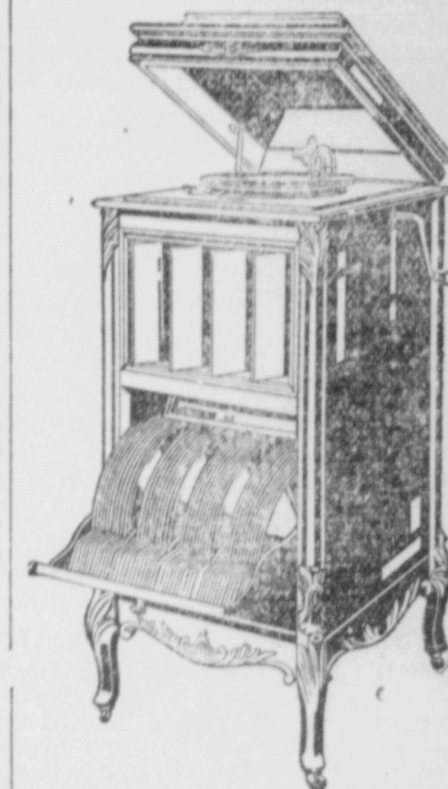

Under the bridge the trains go by With whistle and shriek and puff, And I mean to go right off in a train When I am big enough.

I shall go to a land where bananas grow, And oranges, too, on trees; Where every one eats whatever he likes And no one says, "If you please."

I shall drink my milk from a coconut And munch the sugar cane, And when I am tired of that faroff land, Why, I'll come home again! —Infant's Magazine.

The Dog's Tail.

Why is the center of a tree like a dog's tail? Because it is farthest from the bark.

"The Northern Pacific broke every record in January by earning money enough to cover its dividend apportionment for that period."—News Item.

This is an encouraging statement and it is without precedent, the index to midwinter trade conditions in the Northwest. Operating cost in the winter time on railroads in the northwest usually makes a deficiency, especially in January, and the statement that in January, 1915, the net earnings were insufficient by $810,000 to provide for the dividend apportionment for a 30 day period on the Northern Pacific road. But in January this year the road earned sufficient to provide a net sum that covers the dividend for the month and leaves $171,000 over.

February's record showed heavier loadings of tonnage on the system, and it is expected, according to a report from the general offices that the gross and net figures for February when available will show a material increase over the same month last year.

The republicans of Brainerd and Crow Wing county should give C. A. Albright a solid vote for delegate to the republican national convention and assure his election by a large majority tomorrow. Mr. Albright is a booster for northern Minnesota, is right on the questions of the day, and will get a big vote in the adjoining counties of the Sixth district. He is one of the two candidates to be elected as district delegates and he will represent the sentiment of the republicans in this section at the national convention if he is elected.

If the buyer forgets that you are in business, look around and see if you have not forgotten to advertise the fact to the world. It's a sort of a "show me" period in the history of mankind, and people go where inducements are offered. The profit on the trade of a half dozen customers would pay for a whole lot of publicity that in the end would bring you golden eagles. You might have to knock the dust off your counters and goods in the rush of trade, but one would get used to that.

If you are interested in the election of presidential delegates who will name the next president of the United States it is your duty to go to the polls tomorrow and register your choice. Don't stay home and then kick at the result.

Sunshine.

In a year 4,472 hours of sunshine are possible, but few places ever experience the maximum.

THEY REFUSE TO EAT

At periods in most children's lives they fail to relish their meals and refuse to eat even the delicacies prepared to tempt their appetites. They lack ambition, and growth seems impeded, which causes anxiety and worry.

To compel them to eat is a grave mistake, because nutrition is impaired. Healthful exercise in fresh air and sunshine is important, but equally important is a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion three times a day to feed the tissues and furnish food-energy to improve their blood, aid nutrition and sharpen their appetites.

The highly concentrated medicinal food in Scott's Emulsion supplies the very elements children need to build up their strength. They relish Scott's—it is free from alcohol.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-4

THE GASOLINE CRISIS

The St. Paul Dispatch in discussing the high price of gasoline and its steady increase in price, says: "What the whole motoring world is crying out for is cheaper gasoline, or, better than that, a cheap substitute fuel which will make it independent of the oil interests. The gasoline problem is rapidly moving to a crisis, and one of three things is pretty sure to occur: The oil group will reduce the price of gasoline voluntarily, or some lucky inventor will hit upon a new cheap internal combustion engine fuel or the government itself will be compelled to step in and manufacture gasoline."

The mounting price of gasoline is the occasion of much concern, not only to motorists but to automobile manufacturers and dealers. Up to the present the complaint among owners of machines has been chiefly confined to those who motor for pleasure. But as the oil interests force up the cost per gallon, even those who utilize motor cars for commercial purposes are beginning to become alarmed and to threaten to return to horse-driven vehicles unless relief appears.

Obviously, if actual or prospective users of automobiles find themselves unable to motor on account of the high cost of fuel, then the market for cars will be greatly diminished. And that is where the automobile manufacturer comes in. His engineers have accomplished much in the way of building engines which give a high ratio of mileage to each gallon of gasoline. But what is the use of possessing a car which goes eighteen miles to the gallon if the price of fuel has doubled since the time when the owner drove a car which did only nine or ten miles to the gallon?

CLOTHES IN CHINA

Where Women Wear Trousers and Men Are Clad In Skirts.

A CURIOUS FASHION IN HAIR.

The Feminine Head Is Decorated With a Stiff Cushion That Demands Constant Ventilation to Be Bearable. Vogue of the Ear Ticker.

Even though I came to China knowing that they did things backward, there are some customs here that I just can't get used to. One is seeing women wearing trousers. There are more women wearing trousers in China than there are people in the United States—men, women and children. I suppose there is no reason why things shouldn't be thus, but it will always seem to me that the pants are on the wrong side of the house.

The women look like clothespins. Their bodies are the same size all the way down, and their feet are so tiny that they go bobbing along for all the world like jointed clothespins. The women shave their foreheads, with the timber line almost at the top of their heads, so that the little patch of face below looks as if it were trembling under threat of an impending snowslide.

Their hair is pulled and keyed back as though for musical purposes. At the back of the head a Chinese woman wears a cushion of false hair, so dressed as to show her rank, so that a person skilled in the language of the hair can read her history, can tell her present plans and her future ambitions. A person up on hair can tell at a glance whether or not she is married; if so, how many children she has, and if a widow, if she is willing to open correspondence with a desirable party of about forty-five—object, matrimony.

In this cushion a Chinese woman carries her head scratcher. Her hair dressing is a preparation made of slippery elm. The person needing it can run out to the corner and wait until the carpenter takes a plane and shaves off a few curls. This the Chinese lady steeps into a thick, gummy smear, pours it on her head and uses it to stiffen her hair.

This layer makes the top of her head hot, so that every odd moment when she hasn't anything else to do she gets down under the mess and lets in some air with a darning needle. Her favorite time for doing this is at the theater. When the performance begins to drag she gets out her darning needle and improves the shining hour by making a rift in the roof as she looks around over the audience, lightly gossiping about who are there, what they are wearing and how awful they look.

Men in China wear skirts. Their skirts are in a garment that reaches from their shoulders to their shins and looks like a nightgown worn by a Cape Cod deacon. It has a tasty slit up each side, so that on muddy crossings the twinkle of masculine ankles may be seen. When they want to catch a car they have to gather up their skirts in the good old fashioned feminine way.

Under their skirts they wear a pair of drawers fastened at the ankles with a bandage, with the ends tucked in. When a Chinaman has an important letter or note to carry he unties the leg of his drawers, stuffs it in and puts the bandage back. The bandage works loose, so that when he reaches his destination the note is usually gone.

The only pockets a Chinaman has are in his shirt waist, which he wears under his skirt, so that when he wants to get a dime he has to unbuckle one side and slip in a hand. Even though a Chinaman wears skirts he has not yet learned about the First National bank.

The Chinese are a great nation to think of the handy little things—things that no other people in the world could possibly think of. You can run out on to the street almost any time and buy an ear tickler. Men make a living going around selling them. An ear tickler is a little puff of cotton on the end of a stick and is meant to combine both business and pleasure—the business of cleaning the ear and the pleasure of the tickling sensation.

His is not an easy life, for the peddler has to be constantly on the watch against tricky people who come up, sample his ticklers, give their ears a couple of good tingles, tell the man that they don't like his brand of tickler and go on their way.

The peddler's ingenuity has developed a way of polishing up the tickler so that the next possible purchaser may not know that the tickler has been weighed and found wanting by carrying along a little bowl of white powder. After a tickler has been sampled and declined he dabs the end into the bowl, and it is bright and fresh looking as if it were new. If you want to buy one you couldn't tell for the life of you but that it was a new one—until you had used it a time or two.—Homer Croy in Leslie's Weekly.

You Know Him.

Now, old fellow, I want to tell you a side of the whole case.

"But I thought you had already told me."

"By Jove! So I did. Well, it won't do any harm to go all over it again!"—Judge

Cold Comfort.

Modest Amateur showing his latest painting—I'm sure, Miss Ethel, you think I'm still some little way from being an artist. Fair Critic (anxiously to say the polite thing)—Oh, no. Very, very far from it, I assure you.

How to Recharge Your Battery

Did it ever occur to you that rest is an antidote for more things than every day physical weariness? It is one of the weapons with which a man or woman may fight emotional strains of any kind. And the reason is an extremely simple one. Let us resort to the faithful old device of a diagram.

In the center of the chart suppose we put the word "energy." That is the thing that we have to work with in this life. Now on one side let's write a list of our expenditures—all the things which call for an outlay of energy. In this list is brain work, physical or manual work, emotion and diversion. These are the things that we spend our store of energy for. Every day we spend ourselves either physically, or mentally, or emotionally, or in some manner which may be a combination of any of them and which constitutes our diversions.

So much for the expense account. What shall we put in a list on the other side of the column that we might call income? How, in other words, do we accumulate energy?

Here are some of the ways: "Food," of course, and then "rest," "good air" and some of the other lesser ways which are productive of a renewed sense of energy, such as good grooming and inspiring associations.

And it is pretty true that you may add to your bank account and thus offset any sort of an expenditure with any sort of an income. That is, if we are working hard and playing hard we need a little more fuel in the way of food to keep the supply of energy up to the standard. And so, too, a little added rest will offset not only a physical, but an emotional strain.

Sometimes sleep is a better antidote for suffering than diversion, because diversion, after all, calls for an expenditure of energy, while suffering or an emotional strain of any sort has already taken a pretty full toll of the supply on hand.

Study the chart, then, and learn not only to spend wisely of the things that represent our outlay, but learn, too, to collect generously from those common sources of supply which are open to every one—food, fresh air and rest.

LAYING A SPECTER.

A Filmy Blue Light and Some Daring Japanese Police.

In the village of Hase, near Kanazaki, at the end of the Rokosan range, says the Kobe Yushin, rumors were set afloat not long ago that in the small hours of the morning a phantom could be seen at the Miyama pass, where some time ago a murder was committed by robbers. The ghost, whenever he caught sight of a lonely traveler would attempt to stop him, as if he had something important to say. People reported having seen a filmy blue light hovering in their path. In the whole village no one dared thereafter to walk that way after dark.

The rumor was laughed at by the skeptical police, but late one night a number of officers were instructed to patrol the haunted pass in the hope of bringing relief to the tortured minds of the timid by proving that there was no ghost or, should be met, putting him under arrest. Every half hour after midnight a different policeman was to traverse the pass. Up to half past 2 nothing happened. Then one of them saw the blue light in front of him. He blew his whistle and ran—back to the police station. The others also ran—in the same direction.

When morning came the whole countryside joined the police in making search for the ghost. What they found near the scene of the blue light was a human skeleton in a long disused lime kiln. The local scientist declared that the light was a phosphorescence from the poor neglected bones, which were thereupon interred with full Buddhist ceremony at Kase, and the people as far as Kanazaki breathe easier.

LET US DO YOUR PRINTING

VOTERS WILL ELECT DELEGATES TUESDAY

Presidential Primaries will be Held In Every Precinct in the County and State Tomorrow

LOCATION OF POLLING PLACES

Judges will Fill Vacancies and Appoint Clerks—Polls Open at 6 O'Clock, Close at 9 P. M.

Tomorrow the trial of a primary presidential election is to be made in Minnesota, the first of its kinds in the state, and in every voting precinct in city and county by electors will have an opportunity of expressing their choice in the selection of delegates to represent them in the national conventions one of which will nominate the next president of the United States. In the township precincts the election comes at the same time as the election of town officers and both elections are held at the same time with the same election officers, the ballots, however being cast in separate boxes.

The polls in the cities will open at 6 o'clock in the morning and remain open until 9 in the evening, while the country precincts will keep their polls open from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 in the evening.

Thirty days' residence in a precinct is required as a qualification for voting in the presidential preference primary next Tuesday, according to an opinion given out today by C. L. Hilton, assistant attorney general. If a voter has moved into a new precinct within 30 days prior to March 14, he will lose his vote. Mr. Hilton also holds that if a voter calls for a republican ballot, and, on being challenged, admits he voted the democratic ticket in the last election, he may not receive the republican ballot.—Minneapolis Journal.

The polling places and the officers of election in the different wards of the city are as follows:

First Ward—Gardner block, Laurel street. Judges—Andrew Anderson, Geo. Smith, P. E. McCabe.

Second Ward—Herbert building, 611 Main street. Judges—Wm. Nelson, A. E. Evans, V. N. Roderick.

Third Ward—Hose House. Judges—Tim. Toohey, L. Goodell, W. W. Winters.

Fourth Ward—Hose House. Judges—A. C. Ford, P. M. Bislar, T. E. Smith.

Fifth Ward—Kaatz Building, Seventh street. Judges—L. J. Mraz, Thomas Russell, C. G. Waffle.

The judges of election will appoint the clerks, and fill vacancies where one of their own number is absent.

In the country precincts the election of township officers will bring out the vote as much interest is taken in the selection and "town meeting day," as it is usually called, brings the farmers together where matters of mutual interest are canvassed, township and road affairs discussed as well as the election. In the city, however, there is nothing except the election of presidential delegates to bring out the vote, and while it is a matter that should interest every elector, it is predicted that the vote will be light.

It is the duty of every voter to record his choice in this matter.

BRAINERD VS. LITTLE FALLS

Standing of the Basketball Contestants in Getting Uncomfortably Close

Last Friday night Little Falls won a victory over the Brainerd quintet by the exceedingly uncomfortable majority of one point. Previous to that on Jan. 15, Brainerd defeated Little Falls by 13 points, the score being 21 to 34.

Now to decide whether Brainerd or Little Falls is the best team to complete with Bemidji for championship of this district the Brainerd quint accepts Little Falls' challenge to meet them again Tuesday night on the Little Falls floor.

Enthusiasm has reached its highest pitch in the high school. When the windows are open small portions of enthusiasm begin to bubble over and ooze out through cracks and other means of escape. Every wild-eyed student is over his or her savings bank and stacking the contents so that they might see how many more nickels or dimes they have to get to enable them to get to Little Falls and back. Little Falls expects an enthusiastic crowd of Little Falls fans and Brainerd promises a good supply of rooters.

The game promises to be one of immense import to the history of the race for the championship of the sixth district. A large body of Brainerd fans and rooters will be appreciated at that game and your money's worth is assured.

Right here it might be stated that Wadena, after defeating Brainerd once on their undersized floor and then defeating Frazee, Battle Lake, Alexandria and some of the small teams of the district, claimed the championship of the Sixth district. Immediately Bemidji challenged them to a game on some neutral floor. The St. Cloud floor was decided on. The game was staged last Saturday night but Wadena had no chance at all. When the time-keepers sounded "time up" the score was counted and Wadena was rather "mused up" so to speak, the score being 53 to 59 in Bemidji's favor. Tanner made 16 field baskets, all unguarded field shots. His guard, the famed Spencer, was unable to locate him at all. Wadena's forward, Zimmer, made 10 field goals. Johnson of Bemidji, made 6, Cameron 4, Bailey 3. Little Falls also got the short end of the score at Aitkin Saturday night being defeated by a score of 23 to 19. W. C. Deering of Crosby, will referee the contest and a fast exciting game is assured.

LUMBERMEN NOW LOOK FOR FLOODS

Old Rivermen are Preparing for an Unusual Amount of Water When the Break-up Comes

FOUR FEET OF SNOW NORTH

Only Favorable Weather Conditions Can Prevent Considerable Damage by Water Below

A flood along northern Minnesota rivers and the upper Mississippi that may reach down to Minneapolis is becoming imminent, says the Minneapolis Journal, unless fortunate weather intervenes, declared rivermen and lumbermen today. The next 20 days will tell the story, they said.

There is more snow over the state from Minneapolis north than in 12 or 15 years, said Charles E. Sinclair, surveyor general of logs and lumber. "The general average is above four feet and the range is covered even deeper than this in most places. A sudden warm spell with a warm rain will mean floods."

"We are using extra chains and boomsticks and strengthening our booms in every way possible," said R. H. Chute, president of the Mississippi & Rum River Boom company.

"There is a lot of water that will come down this spring. The snow is deep and the ice is heavy. If the cold hangs on up north only to meet a hot sun later, it will mean floods. Alternate warmth and cold will save the day. Yesterday's warmth took away a good amount and it is possible that we may get through without any trouble."

S. H. Childs, secretary of the Northern Pine Manufacturers' association, joined in these opinions and said that trouble might well come, if not so far down in the Mississippi as Minneapolis, at least farther north, and along the smaller rivers.

RETURNS FROM OMAHA

A. C. Farrar Has Been in Western City in Attendance at Brother's Bedside for Weeks

A. C. Farrar is in the city today on his way home to Duluth from Omaha where he has been for some weeks, called there by the serious illness of his brother, and whose death occurred a few days ago. Mr. Farrar will leave Duluth in a very few days on an extended trip to the west and northwest, visiting Omaha again on his way. The Daily News, of Omaha, has the following to say regarding the death:

"Edwin H. Farrar, veteran telegrapher, passed away this morning at his home, 4916 Capitol avenue, aged sixty years. Born in Manchester October 25, 1855, he went into telegraphing early and coming to Omaha in 1880 became an operator for the Western Union. He went to Cheyenne as night chief operator in 1882, some years later returning to this city and being operator wire chief and traffic chief and winning golden opinions from everybody by his pleasant personality and his skill as a telegrapher.

Two years ago he had a nervous breakdown and was retired on a pension. He was a member of capitol lodge of Masons and of the Woodmen of the World.

Mr. Farrar leaves a wife and a brother, A. C. Farrar, of Duluth. The funeral will be held from Dodder's at 2 p. m., Thursday, with burial at West Lawn."

COMMUNICATION

Editor Dispatch:—Since it is the implied wish of my friend Kimball that no reply be made to his article appearing last week, I will of course defer to his wishes this time. But would suggest for his future guidance that he write no more articles of this nature for publication and expect immunity by reason of our long standing friendship that he mentions. That he is but ill posted on the subject upon which he was writing, must be apparent to all. It is not the function of the Boosters' club to "break up" the county fair at Pequot or any other legitimate enterprise, but rather to "boost" for all legitimate enterprises, tending to making a bigger and better Crow Wing county. It is easy to believe, as he says, that he wrote the article wholly alone, and that he submitted it to no one for revision and correction. With kindest personal regards.

BRIDGE TRUST BUSY

Eleventh Hour Movement Being Made Asking Townships to Declare Against Highway Commission

The bridge trust which a special legislative committee found to exist in 1914 is reported to be again backing a movement to attack the State Highway commission at the annual town elections Tuesday.

The legislative committee which was headed by C. H. Warner of Aitkin county, conducted an exhaustive investigation at the last session of the legislature and reported in April, 1915, that it found evidence a bridge trust existed which was throttling competition in the various counties and was seeking to upset the Highway commission and have a so-called home rule plan of road and bridge building adopted.

On the eve of the holding of the town meetings the State Highway commission says it has been informed that the various townships are being canvassed and the boards asked to pass resolutions declaring for the so-called home rule plan and against the highway commission.

"It is the same attack that is being made on every Highway commission in the United States," said George W. Cooley, state engineer and secretary of the Minnesota Highway commission, "and it is fostered by bridge builders and material men who object to any central organization which has the facilities for the comparison of prices and methods of construction, and which may reduce the cost of work in the communities interested."

"The very fact that the attack on the commission is made at the eleventh hour shows that it will not stand the light of investigation. It is the same character of combinations that the various cities have experienced in paving."

"Of the forty-eight states thirty have state highway commissions while only three are without a thoroughly organized state department, so that the central system for holding illegal combinations in check must be successful."

"Eighty-one of the eighty-six counties in Minnesota have by resolution endorsed the engineers sent to them by the State Highway commission, and have agreed to retain them any time the funds of the commission are not sufficient to keep the corps of engineers intact."

Few townships are expected to pass the adverse resolutions.

VISITING IN TEXAS

John H. Hill of Ironton, Well Known Mining Man and Real Estate Owner, Enjoying Himself

John H. Hill, one of the fee owners of the Cuyuna-Duluth mine at Ironton and also part owner of the townsite, is enjoying his winter vacation in San Antonio, Texas.

"San Antonio," writes Mr. Hill, "is going to be the great gateway into Mexico for trade. It is a favorite spot for Mexicans, notwithstanding the tragedy of the Alamo and the battle of San Jacinto. It is a commercial city of importance, and its trade can be multiplied with the right directing force. There are many Germans in San Antonio."

Mr. Hill enclosed a number of postal giving views of the city. There was one of a $2,000,000 monument, a memorial never erected, which, as Mr. Hill says, is still an artist's dream.

Other pictures show the San Pedro Cabin, the Menzer Hotel with its fine gardens, the interior of the Bedell office building, the city hall, the exterior of the Bedell office building, a structure over 10 stories high, the Santa Rosa hospital, the Medina dam construction work, the 10 story Crow office building.

Mr. Hill finds that a visit in the south recuperates and rejuvenates him and every year he now makes the trip, returning to Ironton and Duluth in the spring.

ARREST HORSE TRADER AT PEQUOT

Special Officers Boyd and Carson, of the Indian Department, Take Charles H. Thompson

LIQUOR FOUND IN A TRUNK

Thompson First Lodged in Jail at Brainerd and Then Taken to Little Falls This Morning

In response to a message from Mayor Knight of Pequot to the sheriff, Special Officers Boyd and Carson of the Indian department, went to Pequot and arrested Charles H. Thompson, a horse dealer from St. Paul, charged with taking liquor in a trunk into Indian country.

A large wooden trunk was found in a room in the rear of a hotel at Pequot and in the same was a lot of wrapping paper, a quart and a pint of whiskey.

Thompson was asleep in his room and quietly submitted to arrest. He was lodged in jail at Brainerd and on Monday morning taken to Little Falls to appear before United States Court Commissioner Cameron.

DON'T SCOLD MOTHER!

THE CROSS CHILD IS BILIOUS, FEVERISH

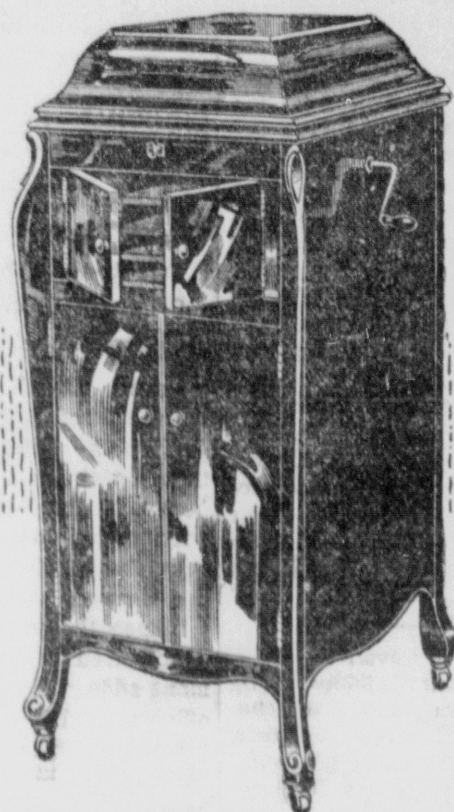

Look at Tongue! If Coated, Clean Little Stomach, Liver, Bowels

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, does not eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Adv.

CHIROPRACTIC

After all that has been said and promised by the unscrupulous, that drugless treatments—of any kind—do not hurt, there is still pain in some cases to reach the cause and do you any good. Any one who has had any experience with drugless practitioners will bear me out in that statement. Mind you I said in some cases. A very large majority of my patients would smile at the suggestion that my treatments are severe, and they ought to know from experience.

It all depends upon the nature of the ailment, condition of the patient, disposition, etc. It doesn't take much to hurt some people, or start them to thinking and expressing themselves in exaggerated terms. But in any case they are not as severe as many who have never taken them, but who have heard from "they say," would have you believe.

In all cases from the cradle to old age, I will treat you as lightly as you would have me. But in those cases where time and money are important, I like to be told to use my good judgment to get results.

AVIATOR ROBINSON FALLS TO HIS DEATH

Ewart, Ia., March 12.—William Robinson, twenty-five years old, Grinnell aviator, was burned to death after his aeroplane had overturned and dropped from a great height near here.

The gasoline tank on his machine exploded as the biplane hit the ground, throwing the body over the machine and Robinson, enveloping them in flames.

Robinson was dead when William Clelland and William Cline, who saw the machine fall and heard the explosion, reached the scene a few minutes later. The machine was entirely destroyed and the cause of the accident probably never will be known.

Robinson conducted an aviation school at Grinnell, near here, and manufactured his own planes. He held the long distance continuous record flight of America, having flown from Des Moines to a point in Indiana, southeast of Chicago, in one flight last summer.

All but the Cover. "Did you hear about Scribbles? The police caught him walking out of a hotel writing room with about $10 worth of the hotel stationery under his coat."

"What did he have to say for himself?"

"Said he was gathering material for a novel."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

FRENCH SUFFER SEVERE REVERSE

Berlin Reports Repulse of Determined Attack.

FIGHTING IN VERDUN REGION

Teutons Claim to Have Taken Over Twenty-six Thousand Unwounded Prisoners Since Present Operations on the Meuse Were Begun.

Berlin, March 12.—Assaults made by the French in massed formation against the newly won German positions on the left bank of the Meuse, northwest of Verdun, were repulsed with heavy losses to the attackers, says the official statement issued at the German army headquarters.

"Since the present operations were commenced in the Meuse," the statement adds, "26,462 unwounded French officers and men have been taken prisoners and 189 guns and 232 machine guns have been captured."

ATTACK FRENCH POSITIONS

Paris Admits Germans Capture Another Trench.

Paris, March 12.—German troops, after a heavy artillery bombardment, attacked the French positions on the eastern front of the Verdun sector and succeeded in capturing a small trench to the north of Eix, according to the official statement given out by the French war department. Intense artillery engagements, the statement adds, were in progress at various other points along the western front.

GERARD MAY RETURN SOON

American Envoy at Berlin Will Secure Vacation.

Washington, March 12.—James W. Gerard, American ambassador at Berlin, is expected to return to the United States within the next few weeks. The probable duration of his stay in this country is not known.

Secretary Lansing has urged the ambassador to come for a rest and change of scene.

It was suggested that the president may deem it advisable to have Mr. Gerard exchange posts with Henry Morgenthau, the ambassador to Constantinople, now in this country on leave.

The fact that the state department has offered Mr. Gerard leave at this time, when the relations between the two governments are strained, also was construed to mean that it might be the forerunner of developments of the gravest importance.

VESSEL GIVEN NO WARNING

Norwegian Ship Said to Have Been Torpedoed.

Paris, March 12.—J. O. Osborne, American consul at Havre, in his report to Washington on the sinking of the Norwegian bark Cilius, is understood to bring out clearly that the Cilius was torpedoed by a submarine.

The seven Americans, who were on board the bark, were looking after a cargo of oats which was consigned to the French government. These men and the members of the crew have been questioned by the consul, who has cabled a summary of their testimony to Washington.

Their testimony, it is said, leaves no doubt that the Cilius was torpedoed without warning. A full report on the sinking of the vessel will be mailed to Washington.

PASSENGERS AVOID LINERS

Two White Star Vessels Leave New York With Freight Only.

New York, March 12.—The White Star liners Cymric and Lapland, both passenger ships, left here for Liverpool, carrying freight only.

The American line steamship New York with 550 passengers for Liverpool and the Holland-American liner Rotterdam for Rotterdam by way of Falmouth, Eng., also sailed.

BRITISH SUPPLY SHIP SUNK

Mercantile Fleet Auxiliary Fauvette Struck Mine.

London, March 12.—It was officially announced at the British admiralty that the mercantile fleet auxiliary Fauvette, 2,644 tons gross, has been sunk as the result of striking a mine off the coast of England.

Fourteen members of the crew were lost.

HORSE BALKS ON CROSSING

Three Killed When Fast Train Strikes Wagon.

Philadelphia, March 12.—A balky horse stopped on a crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad at West Berlin, N. J., as a fast train from Atlantic City to Philadelphia was approaching.

The driver applied the whip without effect and the train crashed into the wagon, killing Mrs. Sallie Cook, sixty-five years old; Anna Cook, twenty-one, her daughter; and Henry Myrtle, twenty-one, the driver.

KNUD RASMUSSEN.

Explorer Completes Plans for Expedition to North Greenland.

The expedition will start early in the spring. He will explore the region between Peary Land and Greenland, especially Independence Fjord, on the east, and Nordenskiöld's inlet and Sherard Osborn's Fjord on the west. If the ice or weather prevents the carrying out of this plan the expedition will first explore Melville bay.

THEODORE VOORHEES DIES

Head of Reading Railroad Succumbs in East.

Philadelphia, March 12.—Theodore Voorhees, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company, died at his home in Elkins Park, aged sixty-eight. His death was very sudden.

Mr. Voorhees underwent an operation at Rochester, Minn., early this year and returned to this city about ten days ago, apparently in good health. He was at his office for a few hours last Friday, the first time since his return from the West.

LAST SURVIVOR OF LIGHT BRIGADE DEAD.

Joliet, Ill., March 12.—William Roberts, eighty-six years old, believed to be the last of the survivors of the Twelfth Royal Lancers, the heroes of Tennyson's poem, "Charge of the Light Brigade," died here of old age.

Roberts came to the United States in 1862 and settled in Mokena, Ill.
